From: Prof. Alan Whitfield <a.whitfield@university.example.edu>
To: ECON 115 – All sections
Date: Sunday, October 18, 2026, 9:03 PM
Subject: Midterm 2 logistics, accommodations, and review session

---

Dear students,

Midterm 2 will take place on Thursday, October 29, during our regular class time (10:30–11:45 AM). Please note that the exam will NOT be held in our usual lecture hall. Students whose last names begin with A through L will take the exam in Davies Auditorium; students whose last names begin with M through Z will take it in Room 114 of the Hall of Graduate Studies. Seating is assigned, and the seating chart will be posted on the course site 24 hours before the exam.

The exam is cumulative but will emphasize material from Weeks 5 through 8: elasticity, consumer surplus, producer surplus, deadweight loss, and the effects of taxes and price controls. You may bring one double-sided, handwritten 8.5 x 11 inch formula sheet and a non-programmable calculator. Phones, smartwatches, and laptops must be turned off and placed in your bag at the front of the room.

Students with approved testing accommodations (for example, extended time or a reduced-distraction room) must confirm their exam booking with the Student Accessibility Services office no later than Monday, October 26, at 5:00 PM. Requests submitted after this deadline cannot be guaranteed. If you believe you may be eligible for accommodations but have not yet registered, please contact Student Accessibility Services as soon as possible; you do not need to share any details of your situation with me.

The TAs will hold an optional review session on Tuesday, October 27, from 7:00 to 8:30 PM in Room 201. The session will be recorded for those who cannot attend. A practice exam with an answer key is already posted under the Exams folder. I strongly recommend completing it under timed conditions before the review session, so that you can bring specific questions.

If you have a documented conflict, such as a religious observance, a varsity athletic event, or an illness, you must email both me and the head TA by Friday, October 23, to request a make-up exam. Except in emergencies, make-up requests received after that date will not be approved.

Good luck with your preparation, and please do not hesitate to come to office hours (Wednesdays, 2:00–4:00 PM) with questions.

Best regards,

Professor Whitfield